

Please make the following changes to the Abstract:

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a device for rolling sliced food ~~comprising~~including a first end and a second end. ~~Said~~The device encompasses an optional means for bending the first end of the sliced food item, at least one means for conveying the sliced food item, and a means which is located above the conveying means, bends the sliced food item as required, and rolls up the bent sliced food item. The invention further relates to a method for rolling sliced food.